

VU Research Portal

De Chinese diplomatie en haar maatschappelijk denkbeeld

Varrall, M.L.

2013

document version

Publisher's PDF, also known as Version of record

Link to publication in VU Research Portal

citation for published version (APA)

Varrall, M. L. (2013). De Chinese diplomatie en haar maatschappelijk denkbeeld. [PhD-Thesis – Research external, graduation internal, Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam].

General rights

Copyright and moral rights for the publications made accessible in the public portal are retained by the authors and/or other copyright owners and it is a condition of accessing publications that users recognise and abide by the legal requirements associated with these rights.

- Users may download and print one copy of any publication from the public portal for the purpose of private study or research.
- You may not further distribute the material or use it for any profit-making activity or commercial gain
- You may freely distribute the URL identifying the publication in the public portal ?

Take down policy

If you believe that this document breaches copyright please contact us providing details, and we will remove access to the work immediately and investigate your claim.

E-mail address:

vuresearchportal.ub@vu.nl

Table of Contents

Table of Contents	ii
Abstract	vi
Statement of Candidate	viii
Acknowledgments	ix
List of Images	xii
Notes on the Text	xii

Chapter One – Citizens of the Nation, then Students: An Introduction of Being Chinese at the China Foreign Affairs University

1

- Introducing Buddy 3
- The Chinese Foreign Affairs University 12
- The Chapters and Their Themes 16
- A Broader Context 19

Chapter Two – CFAU Students and National Logic: What, How and Why?

23

- The Myth of the China Threat: The dominant debates on China's role in the world 24
- The View from Below: Studying up, political anthropology and the anthropology of the state 29
  - Political anthropology* 31
    - Classical understandings of the state 31
    - Anthropological approaches to the state 34
- The Social Imaginary of Chineseness 41
- Chinese Nationalism 46
- How and Why a National Logic? 50
- Normalisation through Sedimentation 57

Education for sedimentation	60
• The Anthropology of the State: What can it add to dominant debates about China in international relations?	63
• Conclusion: We Chinese Students... a social imaginary built on the logic of the national	66
 Chapter Three – Symbolic Immortality:
One Long History of the Chinese Nation	69
• History and the Nation: Using the past to serve the present, using the present to shape the past	70
• Historical Beliefs: One true (apolitical) history	74
• Symbolic Immortality: Official narratives of Chinese history and CFAU students' views	78
The first theme: A continuous and linear history – One true China and one true Chinese people	78
The second theme: The past in the present	85
- We know Confucianism is behind everything	86
The third theme: Chinese immortality disrupted – humiliation and victimhood at the hands of the West	93
The fourth theme: Regaining former and rightful world status	99
• Conclusion	102
 Chapter Four – Students and the State	106
• The State – But not as we know it	106
• How the Chinese Party-state defines itself	112
Today: The three pillars	113
- Territorial integrity	114
- Economic growth	118
- Integrated identity	122
The Difference Between “We Chinese” and You, the Rest of the World	128

• Mass Persuasion: How the Chinese state presents itself as a technique of governance	131
• Conclusion	137

Chapter Five – Ourselves and Outsiders: Who is Obligated to Whom, and Why? 144

• Social Relations and Obligations: The ever-changing ‘audience that matters’	147
Modes of association and the role of the ego	151
Implications	153
• Time and Space and the National Logic	155
Space	156
- The student dormitory	156
Friendship in contexts of interdependence	158
- The classroom	161
Timetable	165
Peer Surveillance: class monitors	168
• (Failing to) Apply the Rules: Negotiating claims to authority	173
Meeting the Dean	174
Teacher-student relationships	179
• Conclusion: To whom are CFAU students obliged?	183

Chapter Six – CFAU Students’ Views of China’s Role in the World 188

• A New Model for the International System: The virtues of multipolarity	189
• Multilateralism	193
• The Future Shape of the International System	195
• China’s Role in an Ideal World	197
The right to a role	199
Responsibility	201
- Taking on responsibility one step at a time	203
China and the global environment	204
Global peace and security	207

• China's Responsibility to Develop (Others)	211
Development with Chinese characteristics	212
What 'developed' means	218
• China's Rise is No Threat	219
The 'China threat theory'	220
- Pursuing an independent policy of peace	228
- The Role of Soft Power	231
• Conclusion	234
 Chapter Seven – Conclusion	 238
 References	 248
 Appendices	 282
Appendix One: Ethics Approval Letter	282